

Living wholeheartedly for God is an adventure which can be exciting, challenging and sometimes a bit overwhelming. The good news of the Jesus affects each of us, our communities, our families, our work, our leisure. Paul's letter to the Romans shows us how our lives are changed, how to live with a changed view of ourselves and the world. Our morning series and home group sessions help us explore this adventure 'in view of God's mercy'.

You may want to get a copy of Andrew Ollerton's book "Romans—A letter that makes sense of life" to read along with the series

Andrew will be with us at Newquay for the church weekend.

Concluding our series in

1 Corinthians. First-century Corinth was a bustling, commercial city, known for its promiscuous, competitive and idolatrous culture. The Corinthian Christians fitted right in – and that was the problem. The Apostle Paul's first letter to this wayward church tackles a huge range of issues with punchy clarity. It's a letter brim full of practical teaching on sex, food, singleness, church discipline, spiritual gifts and much more. But most of all, this is a letter that reveals God's grace. The church was in a bit of a mess, but God loved them anyway – as did Paul. This letter is a reminder to us all that whilst we will always be a work-in-progress, God's transforming power is at work within His people – His church.

Wisdom is at the heart of a life well lived. Many Bible writers point us TrueWISDOM to choose wisdom, to make wise choices. In the well-known picture of the house-builders in Matthew it is the wise builder who is praised. So how do we find wisdom? And, how does it work out in our worship, our work, our homes, our inner lives? Proverbs is well known for its short, insightful and vivid sayings. At the beginning of Proverbs, we're introduced to wisdom as a guide and a helper. These evenings will help us see how to live by this wisdom to honour the Lord with our whole-hearted worship.

TEACHING PROGRAMME Spring 2024

To keep up to date with any changes regarding online and in-person gatherings please read Focus and visit the Belmont website regularly.

...in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God – this is your true and proper worship. Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind.

the rest is worship

Jesus invites us to come to Him and rest. Being still creates a space where we can know God, glorify him and have our souls restored. At the beginning of the world God rested as He finished his work of creation, and He calls us towards rest with Him. Wholehearted living sits between these two points of God's plan. As we come to the end of lent, join us to discover how, in a world and a church that is often busy, distracted and striving, we explore rest as an act of worship, whether we are gathered at church and or scattered to our frontlines through the week.

So often, Easter Sunday goes by in a Resurrection blur, and church moves on into other themes. We believe that Jesus' resurrection is more than a "happy ending" to Lent - it marks a glorious new beginning. Palm Sunday celebrates Jesus the King coming to His people, Easter Day and resurrection sees that kingdom come to life. This series helps us delve deeper into living as resurrection people.
